

Communication Services Through Affiliation With Multiple Service Providers

Abstract of the Disclosure

Apparatus and methods using a first service provider such as a WAN cellular service provider to initiate a communications exchange between a plurality of communications units and a second service provider such as WLAN service provider to provide enhanced communications services to the units has been disclosed and described.